She can ride a bike.
She can play the guitar.
She can sail a boat.
She can't drive a car.
She can't play the piano.
She can't swim.

Can she ride a bike? Yes, she can.
Can she drive a car? No, she can't.

What's the problem?

Go away!

Can you say that again?

That's an excellent question.

I'm from Canada.

The United States of America.

a box of chocolates

John went shopping and he spent a lot of money. He got a watch for his father, a laptop for his mother, and a novel for his son.

Stop!
No problem!
I got a job.
What do you want?

Are you coming?
Probably not.
Park the car.

Do you like chocolate or vanilla?
I need some bananas, a pound of onions, a dozen tomatoes, and six cans of soda.
Dan got some bananas, Don got a pound of onions, and Dawn got a dozen tomatoes.
Can we have some chips and salsa before the chicken and rice.
Jan had a bacon, lettuce, and tomato sandwich and John ordered a chicken pot pie.
Man and woman, men and women.

The cut of that cotton shirt is very flattering. I like the extra color in the collar, too.
Ron stepped in the puddle, so his socks were soaked.
The cat ran under the cot and knocked over Mother's cup of hot chocolate.
The salmon tastes like that because it was fried in duck fat.
Don needs to shop for a new guitar before playing with his new rock band.
There were chocolate stains all over her brand new pants.

Ally MacBeal

We were exclusive in high school and then again at Harvard.
You two were in love.
We were involved.

I'm sorry, but I really hate you.
I really hate you, too.
Really, you're not just saying it?
